France has participated in World Expos ever since their inception. Just like the Olympic and Paralympic Games Japan and France hosted in 2021 and 2024, respectively, the World Expo is a unique opportunity that gathers people from around the globe under a common value. We are deeply attached to this event that gives us hope even in times of difficulty. France is committed to participating in the Osaka-Kansai Expo. The theme of the France Pavilion, which will welcome visitors just inside the east gate to the wonderful Ring surrounding the venue, is “Love” — loving yourself through health and growth, loving others through inclusion and good eating, and loving nature and protecting the environment. It also embodies our love for Japan.

I hope we can cherish this hymn to love with as many Japanese people as possible!

Philippe Setton, Ambassadeur de France au Japon

5. Q & As

- 1) In response to the methane gas explosion accident, the Association is in the process of adjusting a plan to allocate 6.2 billion yen from the contingency fund for safety measures and costs associated with changes in the types of overseas pavilions.
 - i. The utilisation of the contingency fund for site construction in response to unforeseen events including methane gas safety measures and changes in security measures was approved by the Board of Directors of the Association. This has also been discussed in the government's Expo 2025 Budget Execution Monitoring Committee. The latest estimates indicate that the costs associated with these measures are expected to be approximately 8.7 billion yen.
 - ii. Due to the recent stabilisation of price increases of construction materials as well as efforts by the Association on efficient cost management, approximately 2.5 billion yen in costs have been reduced. As a result, the current estimate for the execution of the contingency fund is about 6.2 billion yen.
 - iii. Furthermore, there is no change in the total venue construction cost of 235 billion yen, and the response will be managed within the scope of the 13 billion yen contingency fund.

- 2) Is there any increase in the Expo-related items in the supplementary government budget?
 - i. The costs for venue construction, the construction of the Japan Pavilion and support for the participation of developing countries have not changed from the total estimated national costs related to the Expo presented in February of this year.
 - ii. On the other hand, costs for nationwide momentum-building activities and ensuring thorough safety within the venue have been calculated and included as necessary items.
 - iii. Regarding the costs for nationwide momentum-building activities, it was stated in the February announcement that it would be approximately 4 billion yen plus future costs. As part of these future costs, approximately 2.9 billion yen has been included in this supplementary budget.

iv. For the costs to ensure thorough safety within the venue, given the continued high demand for safety measures, approximately 24.9 billion yen has been allocated to ensure comprehensive safety measures.
